Dear Families

Change of Specification for A Level Law

I hope this letter finds you well. We are writing to inform you of an update regarding the A Level Law course offered at Sackville Sixth Form.

Effective from the upcoming academic term we will be transitioning from the current Eduqas specification to the AQA specification for A Level Law. We understand that changes like these can raise questions, and we want to assure you that this decision was made after careful consideration and with the best interest of our students in mind.

It's important to note that despite the change in specification, all the topics covered in the course so far will remain the same. This means that your child will not lose any progress or knowledge acquired during their studies. The transition to the AQA specification will be smooth, and our experienced teaching staff are fully prepared to support our students throughout this process.

The AQA specification offers a comprehensive and rigorous framework that aligns closely with our educational objectives and standards. We believe that this change will enhance the learning experience for our students and better prepare them for success in their A Level examinations.

We understand that you may have questions or concerns regarding this change, and we encourage you to reach out to me at ebenjamin@mysackville.co.uk if you would like further clarification or information. Our doors are always open, and we value your input and involvement in your child's education.

Thank you for your continued support and cooperation as we strive to provide the best possible learning opportunities for our students.

Yours sincerely

Ms E Benjamin
