This policy has been compiled by the Inclusion Manager in consultation with school staff, parents and school governors. It complies with the guidance given in:

- SEND Code of Practice 0 to 25 years (2014)
- Equality Act 2010
- Disabilities Act (2014)
- Children and Families Act (2014)
- Schools SEN information Report Regulations (2014)

Definition of Special Educational Needs:

A child has a special educational need if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him or her.

Children have a learning difficulty if they:

- have a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age; or
- have a disability which prevents or hinders him or her from making use of facilities of a kind generally provided for others of the same age in mainstream schools.

Special Educational Provision means provision which is additional to, or otherwise different from, the educational provision made generally for children of their age in school.

Although we recognise that every child is unique, they will have needs and requirements which may fall into at least one of the four broad areas of need:

- Communication and Interaction
- Cognition and Learning
- Social, Emotional and Mental Health Difficulties
- Sensory and/or physical needs

Alongside these areas of needs we will also consider the needs of the whole child, not just special educational needs, when determining personalised provision and targets to support a student.

Aims:

At Sackville School we are committed to offering an inclusive curriculum to ensure the best possible progress for all of our students whatever their needs or abilities. Our priority is to develop independent, confident young adults who have high expectations of themselves and have an aspiration to succeed. Student's specific strengths and learning needs are identified in order to provide targeted support and personalised learning opportunities so as to remove barriers to learning. We ensure that students gain respect for themselves and others by learning to work collaboratively and appreciate that they are part of a wider community.

We welcome and value all children equally no matter what their special need or disability. We are committed to providing equal access, for all students, to a broad and balanced social and academic curriculum, including the National Curriculum, and to the life of the school. It is our aim therefore, that any student with a special educational need or disability (SEND) has that need addressed as quickly as possible to enable students with SEND to maximise their attainment and progress. We believe in co-production and encourage active involvement of all staff, parents and students. We view parental support and commitment as vital to the student's learning success and value our partnerships with parents.

Objectives:

- To work within the guidance provided in the SEND Code of Practice 0 to 25 years 2014.
- To identify, at the earliest stage possible, students who have special educational needs or disabilities.
- To give all students equal access and opportunity to the curriculum and to value each student's achievement.
- To involve parents and the student throughout the process.
- To provide support and advice for all staff working with students with special educational needs including individualised support and whole staff INSET.
- To operate a 'whole child, whole school' approach to the management and provision of support for special educational needs and disabilities.
- To provide a SENDCo who ensures we have an inclusive whole school approach.
- To maintain close links with support services, other schools and outside agencies.

Identifying SEND and the graduated approach:

We consider the needs of the whole child when identifying and planning for provision and additional support not just the educational needs of the student. Aspects which are not SEND but may impact on the progress and attainment of the student could include;

- Attendance and punctuality
- Health and welfare
- English as an additional language (EAL)
- Being in receipt of the pupil premium grant (PPG)
- Being a looked after child (CLA)
- Behaviour

The process of identifying special educational needs begins when class teachers, parents, other professionals involved with a student or the student themselves express a concern about their educational progress or their social, emotional or mental wellbeing.

Once a concern has been raised it is the class teachers' responsibility, often in consultation with the SENDCo or year team, to monitor the child and ensure the continuation of quality first teaching whilst making all necessary adjustments and implementing interventions as required. Class teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of all students in their class, including where students access support from learning support assistants or specialist staff.

High quality teaching with adjustments to learning for individual students is our first step in responding to students who have or may have special educational needs. Senior leaders and teaching staff regularly review the quality of teaching for all students through informal and formal lesson observations, high profile visits, INSET to improve teacher understanding of strategies to identify and support students with SEND, data review meetings, leadership meetings and appraisals.

When a teacher feels they have tried all possible strategies within class but the child is still encountering barriers to their learning they would contact the LINK to make a referral. This is not used to label the student but to enable the SENDCo to establish what sort of additional provision or external advice is required.

In determining whether a student requires being on the Special Educational Needs and Disability Register we use the cycle of the graduated approach with the class teachers and year teams driving the movement around the four stages of action with the support, guidance and leadership of the SENDCo:

Assess:

Clear understanding of the student's needs is critical to planning effective strategies which include appropriate provision and influence adjustments that lead to good progress and improved outcomes. A range of sources are used to establish a clear analysis of the student's needs:

- Teacher assessment and knowledge of the student
- Student progress, attainment and behaviour
- The individual's development in relation to their peers
- The views and knowledge of the parent
- The views of the child
- Advice from external support services (in some cases)
- Standardised tests
- Profiling tools, e.g. for speech and language
- Observations
- Screening assessments

Plan:

Once the need for SEND support has been identified the first step is to ensure that high quality teaching, differentiated for individual students is in place. This provision will look different to that which the child received before. It will be based on new information following individualised assessments which teachers did not know before about the student's strengths, barriers to and gaps in learning and the student and parent views. The SENDCo will support the class teachers in ensuring accurate planning in the support of the child.

All staff who work with the student will be made aware of their needs and appropriate staff training made available as required.

Students who are identified within our SEND register as category 'School Support 1' (Appendix C) will have their needs and strengths identified and shared with all relevant staff via our central information system and the SEND register.

Students who are identified as 'School Support 2' (Appendix C) have a 'Thumbnail Profile' (Appendix B) and this will be reviewed yearly. The documentation focuses on the student, their strengths and barriers to learning and what the school, child and parent agree is needed on a daily basis for the student to continue to progress. This element of the documentation ensures all staff, including cover teachers, are aware of the student's needs, the support provided and any teaching strategies or approaches that are required. It keeps the individualised needs and views of the student at the heart of the strategies and approaches.

In addition to the details regarding the 'Thumbnail Profile' above; parents of students who are identified as 'School Support 3' (Appendix C) will liaise more regularly with a member of the pastoral team or a member of The LINK and the student to produce and review an Individual Learning Plan (ILP) (Appendix A). The target element of the ILP focuses on key aspects which the child, parent and class teacher would like the child to work towards achieving and is aimed towards students for whom school are exploring an Educational Health and Care Needs Assessment (EHCNA). This could relate to any barrier the child has within their learning including social and emotional difficulties. It sets a long-term target for the child to strive towards. This target will then be broken down into several smaller steps so as to make the target more manageable to achieve.

The SENDCo will liaise with external agencies as required and ensure any guidance and strategies for support are followed.

Do:

The class teachers are at the centre of the day to day responsibility for working with all students, including those with SEND, whether receiving SEND support or with an EHC plan (Education, Health and Care Plan), even when interventions and targeted provision are away from the classroom. To ensure maximum impact and progress for the child, teachers will;

- Use strategies which support the child to progress and achieve their potential
- Work closely with any support staff leading interventions to plan and assess impact
- Ensure time is allocated for consultation in planning/assessment
- Continually reflect on how students with SEND are developing and respond as needed
- Meet with SENDCo and other leadership members to discuss the progress of children with SEND
- Follow targets but be fluid in adapting processes as required by need.
- Consult with parents and child
- Ensure the child is engaged in their learning

Review:

Teachers are continually reviewing the progress of all students on a daily basis through lesson observation, marking and feedback opportunities as well as regular meetings with support staff. Students with special educational needs or disability at School Support 2 (Appendix D) and above will have their progress reviewed in the following ways

- At least termly, formal review meetings (child, parent/carer, teacher, SENDCo as appropriate)
- Observation
- Work sampling
- Assessed work
- Attainment data/Progress data
- Improvement in progress rates compared to previous progress
- Achieving targets set
- Transference of skills from interventions back into the classroom

Teachers continually evaluate the success of teaching and learning in class as well as the impact of targeted provision on student progress data and the student's wider development. Key considerations will be whether inclusive quality first teaching and targeted provision has been effective in relation to achieving the planned and expected outcomes.

The final part of the review process is to determine the needs of the child for the next stage of the cycle. This may require changing the provision and support.

Education Health and Care Plans:

Where, despite the school having taken relevant and purposeful action to identify, assess and meet the needs of the child, the child has not made expected progress, the school will consider requesting an Education, Health and Care Assessment. This will be decided in consultation with the parent and child.

The school will request consultation with a local authority Educational Psychologist (EP) and will then collate the necessary evidence/documentation to support the assessment. It is then up to the local authority to determine whether the child qualifies for an Education Health and Care Plan. Not all assessments will lead to a successful plan if it is determined that there are other measures the school can take to support the child themselves.
